

AIR LAW WORKSHOP

Leiden, 24-25 November 2016

Introduction

The International Institute of Air and Space Law (IIASL), Leiden University has joined forces with Clyde & Co, London, De Brauw Blackstone Westbroek, Amsterdam and Gorrissen Federspiel, Copenhagen to set up a two-day workshop on air law. The workshop is designed to enhance awareness of, and the interaction between, the various fields of air law – international and EU regulatory, financing and liability. Speakers will articulate the various questions from a multi-jurisdictional angle and illustrate them by examining case law. The organisers wish you a fruitful, interesting stay in Leiden.

John Balfour is an English solicitor and consultant, and until recently a partner, with Clyde & Co LLP in London. He has practised in air law for over 25 years, with particular emphasis on regulatory aspects. He is a Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society, a Committee Member (and past Treasurer and Secretary) of the European Air Law Association, a Board Member of the European Aviation Club and a Member of the International Advisory Board of the International Institute of Air and Space Law at Leiden University. He is the author of European Air Law, the division on EU Law in Shawcross and Beaumont Air Law and many articles on a variety of air law subjects.

Mark Bisset Mark is Head of Aviation Finance, Clyde & Co, London and is Co-Head of Aviation Regulatory. Aircraft Finance: Mark's experience includes loan and lease financing, operating leases and tax-based leases, export credit finance, and aircraft purchase and trading, in a wide variety of jurisdictions. Mark has been very active recently in the business jet market (acting for banks, owners and operators) and also has recent experience in enforcement. He is recognised for having particular expertise in Russian aviation; he has advised on the implementation of the Cape Town Convention before the Russian Ministry of Transport, in conjunction with the Aviation Working Group.. Who's Who Legal Aviation refers to Mark as an "exceptional finance lawyer with extensive knowledge of both the commercial airline and business jet market".

Aviation Regulatory: Mark has over 15 years' experience of advising a wide variety of industry participants (banks, lessors and airlines) on many aspects of aviation law including: Reg 1008/2008 ownership and control, sanctions, slots trading, state aid, environmental issues (in particular in relation to the EU ETS), commercial/private operations and taxes/charges. Mark has participated in studies for the EU Commission on aviation topics (open skies agreement between EU and Association of Southeast Asian Nations, 2014; EU / China and EU / GCC States, 2015). Mark has also advised the Africa Development Bank and other African organisation on the implementation of African Open Skies (Yamoussoukro Decision). Mark has advised the International Air Transport Association (IATA) and the European Low Fares Airline Association (ELFAA), in particular in relation to the EU emissions trading scheme (EU ETS). Mark is a UK civilian adviser to Transport Group Civil Aviation (TG CA) of NATO. Publications: Mark recently co-authored a book "Aviation Insurance – Issues in Law and Practice from the Lessor/Lender Perspective". Mark is contributing editor of "Getting the Deal Through - Aviation Finance and Leasing 2014" and co-editor with John Balfour of "Getting the Deal Through - Air Transport 2014". In addition Mark has contributed to a 2013 Leiden University Air Law Festschrift; has been quoted in the Financial Times; and has written articles for International Financial Law Review, International Banking and Financial Law, Airline Fleet Management, Environmental Liability, American Bar Association Air and Space Lawyer, Air Finance Journal, Environmental Law & Management, Business Law International, PLC and Air and Space Lawyer. Presentations: Mark is a Guest Lecturer at the International Institute of Air and Space Law, Leiden University. Mark has spoken at innumerable conferences and events during his career in aviation: for example, Air Finance Journal conferences Dublin / Moscow; Air Finance Journal Summer School; LUISS Business School Rome; Italian Business Aviation Association; NBAA; Central European Private Aviation Prague; business jets Isle of Man; Corporate Jet Investor London / Beijing / Hong Kong; Corporate Jet Investor Summer School; IATA Geneva; BBC Breakfast News; Radio 4 Today programme.

Berend Crans is a partner/shareholder at De Brauw Blackstone Westbroek N.V. in Amsterdam. Berend has particular expertise in aviation law and aircraft finance and has been involved in many aircraft finance transactions, financing of aircraft lease portfolios and securitisations. During his career Berend has been involved in transactions in respect of more than 400 aircraft. Recent transactions include representing Export-Import Bank of the United States in a series of ECA supported transactions involving aircraft leased to KLM and Transavia Airlines and helicopters leased to Líder Aerotaxi – Air Brasil. Berend is a member of the editorial board of Air & Space Law, a guest lecturer on aircraft finance at IIASL and on structured finance at the University of Amsterdam. He co-edited "Aircraft Repossession and Enforcement" (Kluwer 2009 and 2011) and is co-author of the chapter on The Netherlands. He publishes regularly on aviation law matters and is a frequent speaker on aircraft finance at conferences. Berend is a former chair of the Aviation Law Committee of the International Bar Association. The Who'sWhoLegal, published by the International Bar Association, ranked Berend among the 10 most regarded aviation lawyers of the world stating that "Berend Crans receives a large number of nominations in the research for his 'exceptional proficiency' in aviation finance." He is also recognised by Chamber and Legal 500 and Euromoney's Institutional Investor PLC: "Berend Crans is the dean of aviation law in The Netherlands. He focuses on transactional work and is a leading all round aviation lawyer. He is the best for finance."

Philip Chrystal is currently a Director and Aviation & Space Practice Leader within the claims division of Swiss Re Corporate Solutions in Zurich. Joining the Swiss Reinsurance Company in 1990, he was initially an aviation underwriter for 10 years handling both reinsurance treaty and facultative business before working in the ART group for two years devoted to the aerospace industry. He moved into claims in 2000 and in addition to aviation and space has assumed responsibilities for other transportation lines of business and agricultural losses. He holds degrees in commerce and law from the University of New South Wales in Sydney and a master of laws in air and space law from McGill University in Montreal. He is a member of the legal and claims study group within the International Union of Aerospace Insurers, London and was admitted the New South Wales Supreme Court as a Solicitor/Attorney in 1980.

Paul Freeman plays a significant role in the strategic and tactical management of large-scale casualty claims for various airlines and their insurers in the Asia Pacific region, including currently for Malaysia Airlines (MH370 and MH17) as well as providing local regulatory capability with recent experience in consumer claim handling and lobbying for airlines. Paul has previously worked very closely with BA, easyJet, Ryanair and Singapore Airlines, SATS, SIAEC, SilkAir and SAGI on a day to day basis. He handled the aftermath of the complex and high profile MI185 loss, and numerous other losses across South East Asia and Europe. He has over 25 years' experience in multi-jurisdictional catastrophe and attritional claims, is admitted in Hong Kong and Australia and holds a PPL. Paul also specialises in European Regulatory law including dangerous goods, passenger rights, and web-based selling and pricing. Paul is listed in Chambers UK and numerous other legal directories. He is also qualified arbitrator, mediator and private pilot.

Brian Havel is Distinguished Research Professor of Law, Director of the International & Comparative Law Program, and Director of the International Aviation Law Institute at DePaul University College of Law, Chicago.
